How did the Fund perform in the last year?

The U.S. Near-Term Tax Free Fund (NEARX) primarily invests in U.S. government securities and navigated a complex rate environment in the second half of 2024. While the Federal Reserve cut rates three times during the semiannual period between July 1 and the end of the year, bond investors continued to experience volatility in key rates. Shorter durations did not suffer as much as longer-term maturities. The woes of longer-term maturities were signaled by the demand for higher yields, driven by increased risk as a result of selling out of longer maturities. The Fed's three consecutive rate cuts came later than expected, as at the beginning of the year there was a 90% probability priced in for the Fed to cut in the first half of 2024. Employment and inflation, the two components of the Fed's dual mandate, will continue to be closely monitored as indicators of future rate movements.

Total Return Based on a $10,000 Investment

The above chart represents historical performance of a hypothetical $10,000 investment over the past 10 years. Effective May 1, 2024, the Fund changed its primary benchmark from the Bloomberg 3-Year Municipal Bond Index to the Bloomberg Municipal Bond Index due to regulatory requirements. The Fund retained the Bloomberg 3-Year Municipal Bond Index as a secondary benchmark as the Bloomberg 3-Year Municipal Bond Index more closely aligns with the Fund's investment strategies and investment restrictions.

Average Annual Total Returns

	One Year	Five Year	Ten Year
Investor Class	1.99%	0.40%	0.71%
Bloomberg Barclays Municipal Bond Index	1.05%	0.99%	2.25%
Bloomberg Barclays 3 Year Municipal Bond Index	2.04%	1.07%	1.35%

The Fund's past performance is not a good predictor of how the Fund will perform in the future. The graph and table do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on Fund distributions or redemption of Fund shares.
